Fresh Fighting in Athens Greek Populists Reject Elas' Peace Proposals

ATHENS, Dec. 27.—(AP)—Greek Populist Party members declared today that peace proposals by representatives of the left-wing Elas were unacceptable and the conference called by Prime Minister Churchill ended its second meeting without an agreement.

Premier Churchill Appeals For End of Greek Strife

By STEPHEN BARBER

ATHENS, Dec. 27.—(AP)—In a dramatic 4½-hour meeting closely guarded against continuing violence outside, representatives of the major Greek political parties heard Prime Minister Churchill make a personal appeal last night for a quick end to the political strife which has shaken the country.

In Italy

Canadian Units Drive Forward On Alfonsine

ROME, Dec. 27.—(CP)—Canadian units of the British 8th Army were reported today as driving forward in the direction of Alfonsine, 7½ miles north-east of captured Bagnocavallo, clearing out fortified buildings.

Other 8th Army troops were advancing in the same manner in the area about Bagnocavallo and Farneta, but the Adriatic front was held generally steady. Italian official communique mentioned only patrol activity.

FORCE WITHDRAWAL

To the west, near Italy's Tyrrhenian coast, a strong German counter-attack forced Allied 8th Army forces to withdraw from advanced positions in the Sarcio river valley.

The German communique said German and Fascist Italian troops, in a surprise attack in the Galliano area, "broke through American positions and three back to the formation of the 92nd American Infantry Division."

The Brazilian Expeditionary Force has been in operation along that sector of the 3rd Army front.

AIR FORCES ACTIVE

It was announced here that the withdrawals were made only after bitter fighting, but no details were immediately available.

The German air force struck again yesterday when personnel bombs were dropped north of Sarcio, and around the Tyrrhenian coast.

The British and New Zealand troops of the 8th Army were reported last night advancing to the Sarcio river line after the Canadians seized hotly-contested Rosetta, 10 miles northwest of Ravenna.

Japanese Claim

Four Transports Sunk or Damaged

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 27.—(AP)—An unidentified Japanese Dornier news agency dispatch asserted today that Japanese naval forces sank or damaged four transports off the west coast of Mindoro, Philippine Islands, last night and "sank or damaged" four fully loaded American transports "lost destroyed" two torpedoes boats. The radio dispatch said there were no Japanese losses.

Premier Curtin

Leaves Hospital

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 27.—(AP)—Prime Minister Curtin of Australia has left the Melbourne hospital where he has been convalescing since Nov. 10. The Melbourne radio stated that the minister was confined to the hospital by the doctor's orders to take a "complete rest."

Gandhi III

WARDHAUSA, India, Dec. 27.—(CP)—Mohandas Gandhi is suffering from tracheitis following an attack of influenza. The doctors, who examined him yesterday, said that the parasites are still present. His pneumonia is a little more pronounced.

Hold Parley

ATHENS, Dec. 27.—(CP)—Greek leaders, the conference of the political and military leaders, held a short parley yesterday in Athens. Archbishop Damaskinos of Athens met Foreign Secretary, Lord Bevin.

On Medical Advice David Lloyd George Is To Leave Politics

LONDON, Dec. 27.—(CP)—Prime Minister David Lloyd George, 81, has decided not to stand for reelection to parliament, acting on medical advice.

The announcement was made today by E. P. Evans, chairman of Carnarvon Boroughs, Liberal Association, to a special meeting of the executive of the association.

The Welsh statesman who led Britain to victory during the First Great War is to retire from parliament after 30 years continuous service as member of parliament for Carnarvon Boroughs.

In 1900 he obtained an expected parliamentary victory by 18 votes at a Carnarvon Boroughs by-election. Since then he never lost an election.

MADE ERROR

Exclusive to The Edmonton Bulletin WASHINGTON, Dec. 27.—(AP)—The intelligence service must have made a large part of the blunder in the break-through on the western front.

It is now apparent that the high command intelligence not only failed to detect the build-up by Rundstedt on the weak spot in the front, but also failed to detect the first time this was underestimated. German military strength and the opinion given out to correspondents was that the Ardennes forest was not an advantageous spot in which to launch a winter offensive.

Yank Troops Grive Deep Salient Into German Lines

By JAMES M. LONG

PARIS, Dec. 27.—(AP)—United States troops and tanks have driven a deep salient into German lines within the last 24 hours and dealt the German offensive its first serious setback, a front dispatch said today. The location of this wedge and details could not be given in the dispatch, sent at 2 p.m. (7 a.m., MDT), from the Stavelot area of Belgium.

It followed that the United States headquarters announcement that United States forces on Christmas day had felled back German armor columns which thrust with in four miles of the Meuse River in their deepest penetration into Belgium.

NAZIS ON DEFENSIVE
All along the northern rim of the German drive, said the dispatch from the Stavelot sector, there are indications that the Germans are on the defensive for the moment with in rifle repelling tanks.

Airied officers at the field estimated that more than 2,000 German spies in American uniforms were being kept in the German drive, either infiltrating or being dropped behind U.S. lines.

A German - manned American Sherman tank and two light tanks were being driven into a United States column on one road late yesterday.

Believe Probe Of War Setback To Be Demanded

By C. R. BLACKBURN
WASHINGTON, Dec. 27.—(CP)—A search for some one to blame for the success of the German counter-offensive on the western front is expected to gain impetus here as soon as congressmen and others recover from the shock of the new threat.

Demands for an investigation are expected when the new Congress convenes Jan. 3.

Yesterday the Washington Post editorially recommended that the committee on post-war military policy headed by Representative Clifford Woodrum (Dem., Va.) examine the situation with a view to drawing the proper lesson from it.

CAUGHT NAPPING
"The disquieting thing to the people is that our command was caught napping," the Post says. "The blame is attached to the intelligence service."

"For the mistake both the British and ourselves must accept joint responsibility," for, at Supreme Headquarters Allied Expeditionary Force the chief intelligence officer is a British with an American as his deputy.

"The discouraging success of an enemy many believed was beaten has made it easier for the home front high command to impose fresh restrictions on food and gasoline consumption, and to induce war workers to maintain a high level of production."

There was little controversy when the war mobilization director, James Hynes, ordered the closing of race tracks and the reallocation of athletes and others who may be found available for the draft.

A sweeping increase in the range of rationed goods, with decreased point values in many lines, appears likely to be accepted without protest by a nation newly alive to the fact that the war is far from won.

Liberal Senator, H. J. Logan, Dies

OTTAWA, Dec. 27.—(CP)—Senator H. J. Logan, 74, of the Ontario, N.S. Liberal member of the Senate for Nova Scotia since 1929 and an outspoken advocate in parliament of claims of the maritime province for better treatment within the Confederation, died in hospital last night after a long illness.

Senator Logan was admitted to the Nova Scotia bar in 1892 at the age of 22. He received his law degree from the University of Dalhousie, Halifax, and was associated in legal practice with Col. J. L. Ralston, former defence minister.

He took an early interest in politics and was elected to the House of Commons from his native Cumberland County in 1896, being the first Liberal sent to Ottawa from that riding since Confederation.

He was re-elected in 1900 and 1904 but defeated in 1908. In 1921 he returned to parliament with the largest majority ever given any federal candidate in Cumberland.

His death brings to 15 the number of vacancies in the Senate. The standing now is: Liberals 48, Progressive Conservatives 35, and vacancies 15. Total 96.

British authorities informed the Elms that the truce was regarded as null and void.

It had been agreed that no artillery would be taken on one side or air action on the other for three-quarters of an hour from 3 p.m. while Elms delegates were being brought to last night's conference at which Prime Minister Churchill announced for the warring factions to end their strife.

mosphere was tense that even generals had to give up their side arms before entering the cold, dimly-lighted conference room.

The sound of gunfire echoed over the mountains during the session and only a short time before it started dynamite had been discovered in sewers near one of the capital's leading hotels, the Great Bretagne.

"I and Mr. Eden have come all this way, although great battles are raging in Belgium and on the German frontier, to make this effort to rescue Greece from a miserable fate and raise her to a point of great fame and reputation," Mr. Churchill said.

SEEK NO ADVANTAGES
He urged that no one think "Great Britain desires any material advantages from Greece."

"We do not want an inch of your territory, we seek no commercial advantages, save those which are offered by Greece to all nations of the world. We have not the slightest intention of interfering with the way in which normal and tranquil Greece carries on its affairs."

"Whether Greece is a monarchy or a republic is a matter for Greeks and Greeks alone to decide. All we wish you is good, and good for all."

"What will enable us to leave Greece? Naturally, now that all these tragic things have happened, we are bound in honor to bring this matter to a good conclusion."

"The eyes of the world are upon this table," Mr. Churchill declared in a pointed 15-minute speech before the assembled party representatives to solve their differences.

NO DECISION HINTED
The momentous session lasted 4½ hours, but there was no immediate indication of what decisions might have been reached.

Mr. Churchill's speech and other formalities in the presence of United States, Russian and French representatives, the Allied observers withdrew leaving only delegates of the opposing Greek factions to face each other in the big, cold conference room.

An hour before the meeting ended Themistokles Sophoulis, Liberal party leader, left the room and did not return. His action was not explained.

The conference was held at an undisclosed location and there was no apparent indication that the carefully-laid dynamite found near the Grand Bretagne Hotel represented a plot against the

Expect Canada To Seek More U.S. Air Routes

By JAMES J. STREIB
WASHINGTON, Dec. 27.—(AP)—Canada is expected to seek a larger share of the air routes connecting her and the United States, it appeared today as it was learned officials of the two countries probably will confer next month on a new agreement covering these routes.

An air services agreement between Canada and the United States was revised in 1940 and is to expire at the end of 1942. Because of the war, it was decided in March, 1943, to extend terms of the agreement for a year, after which a conference was to be held.

Apparently in a prelude resulting from the recent aviation conference at Chicago has pushed ahead plans for new negotiations.

FIRST AGREEMENT

The original agreement divided the routes between the United States and Canada, with the United States taking Bangor, Me., to Montreal, N.B., Buffalo, N.Y., to Toronto, and United States point to Windsor, Ont. and Great Falls, Mont., to Lethbridge, Alta., while Canada was given Toronto-New York and any Canadian point to Detroit. Later the United States began flying from Seattle, Wash., to Vancouver, B.C., Fargo, N.D., to Winnipeg and New York to Montreal. Canada now is flying but one route into the United States.

One of the things Canadian spokesmen seem almost certain to ask is a route to Chicago, where Canadian livestock and grain interests carry on considerable business.

At Least 13,273 Nazis Captured In Foie Offensive

WASHINGTON, Dec. 27.—(AP)—The U.S. war department reported yesterday that at least 13,273 Germans have been taken prisoner during the current German counter-offensive. This report, the department said, is a preliminary one.

Disclosure of the figure was made in an announcement which said that the 800,000 German prisoners had been taken on the western front since the landings in Normandy on June 6. This covered the period up to Christmas eve.

EXTENDS JAP WAR
It actually takes until late next year to beat the German, the day for victory over Japan will have to be moved forward also. But in Asia and the Pacific, as well as in Europe, much of what will happen depends on Russian plans, as yet unrevealed.

There is for instance the question of whether and when the Red army will open a full-scale offensive against Germany on the Polish front. The ground is frozen and the time is ripe since the Germans are heavily engaged in the west.

Successful Russian assault and break-through to Berlin might shorten the war somewhat, but in view of what has happened in the west there now is no reason to believe that these results would be either certain or quickly achieved.

Military men say the Germans may be expected to resist and strike back in the east with the same ferocity they have shown against the western allies.

The success of the present German drive is being attributed by some authorities here partly to a failure of Allied intelligence and planning.

LIVES OF MR. CHURCHILL AND FOREIGN SECRETARY EDEN, whose arrival was a complete surprise.
The meeting started at an hour and a half without representatives of the left-wing Elms group. Archbishop Damaskinos, wearing long black robes and presiding as chairman of the session, made a short introductory speech thanking Mr. Churchill and Mr. Eden for coming and then the Prime Minister launched into his address.

SCUFFLING HEARD
Mr. Churchill had been talking for about 15 minutes when the noise of scuffling was heard outside the doors, guarded by a predominantly British military guard, and three Elms representatives then were ushered in.

Everyone rose, bowed and sat down again. The archbishop repeated his introductory remarks, the Elms trio passed around the great oak table and shook hands with all present, including Mr. Churchill, and the Prime Minister started his speech again.

Britain's Ministry Economic Warfare To Be Continued

LONDON, Dec. 27.—(CP)—The slow-up in the course of the war has resulted in the postponement of the winding up of Britain's ministry of economic warfare, originally set for the end of this month.

An announcement last night from 10 Downing Street said that the date for the transfer of the remaining functions of the ministry to the foreign office had been "postponed for the time being."

All arrangements for the ministry's winding were completed a short while ago including some farewell speeches to the personnel when Prime Minister Churchill suddenly decided on its continuance.

THE FRONT NARROWED

1. The width of the German front has been narrowed, particularly in the south.

2. Good weather has given Allied forces a chance to pound the enemy's supply lines and combat forces, inflicting severe losses in personnel and supplies.

3. The rate of advance of the enemy spearheads has been slowed considerably since the opening of the offensive.

Natural Consequence Flare-Up of Civil Strife In Lands Now Liberated As Old Quarrels Renewed

By CHARLES BRUCE

LONDON, Dec. 27.—(CP)—The flare-up of civil strife, first in Belgium and more seriously in Greece, has highlighted a fact of political human nature:

Best kept the immediate threat of a common enemy and peace-time differences within the national family break out with re-kindled force.

From North Africa to Athens the pattern has been the same. France emerges as the one country virtually cleared of the enemy that has achieved a united front—because her resisting groups, without major cleavages, rallied around Charles de Gaulle and what he stands for.

TWO MAIN AIMS

In working with temporary governments in liberated countries, the Allies have had to keep two aims paramount:

1. The military effort—security of supply lines and elimination of sabotage; in other words, winning the war.

2. Temporary support for civilian peoples behind the fighting fronts.

To achieve these as the one country virtually cleared of the enemy that has achieved a united front—because her resisting groups, without major cleavages, rallied around Charles de Gaulle and what he stands for.

Free elections will help. They will at least establish governments whose right to deal internationally and with their own people is unquestioned. But just when elections can be held is still obscure.

France has made a start by announcing municipal elections for Feb. 1, 1945.

And in the meantime the Allies will have to assist in the working out of negotiated formulae between occupation—where political differences could never be brought into the open—it is only natural that some among these holdovers from pre-war years should appear as unrealistic men bent on simple revenge to things as they were, rather than on coupling of victory with a clean-out of political rubble. And equally naturally, to these pre-war statesmen the ideas of some groups must seem the road to anarchy rather than a fuller life for all.

TAKE NATURAL COURSE

It is understandable that these different groups should turn their energy to the future of their own countries and to the self-interest that is part of human nature. After years of resistance, openly or underground, they could hardly be expected to become passively acquiescent.

But no one questions that resultant threats and actual outbreaks of violence are a disheartening drag on the fighting men who must finish the war.

Free elections will help. They will at least establish governments whose right to deal internationally and with their own people is unquestioned. But just when elections can be held is still obscure.

France has made a start by announcing municipal elections for Feb. 1, 1945.

And in the meantime the Allies will have to assist in the working out of negotiated formulae between

"I dearly love to get my laundry back. It reminds me of Christmas. I never know what I'm gonna get!"

groups to ensure that no single party shall control the machinery of voting when the time comes.

It may be that the Allies could have saved themselves some trouble by proclaiming their own military rule over liberated or partly-liberated countries until the final defeat of Germany. Apart from the principle involved, this is doubtful. It did not work so well for the Germans.

As far as dealing with established governmental elements goes, the most extreme point reached in this practice was undoubtedly Gen. Eisenhower's bargain with Admiral Darlan two years ago. There was criticism in the British and American press about that.

With that in mind, there is some justification here over the United States state departments Dec. 5 statement re-affirming its policy of staying out of internal affairs of other nations. Theoretically, at least, there is a fundamental agreement between Britain and the United States that liberated states shall decide their own futures, but that order shall be maintained where necessary for military reasons.

In the meantime Britain as the actively guiding hand, has been running into practical problems. The United States has not had to face

OUR BOARDING HOUSE

SAN TWIGGS LISTEN TO THIS LETTER. SIR: YOUR MOLLY JOES FINALLY HAVE POISONED ME WHEN YOU DUG UP THAT ONE ABOUT MOST SMASHUPS CAUSED BY NOT AT THE INSIDE ME SNAPPED I HAVE DECIDED TO SHOOT YOU.

FROM THE ARDENT TONE OF THAT FANMAIL, I DON'T THINK I NEED ASK YOU TO SHOOT ME A GAME OF POOL.

WHY NOT GIVE OUT WITH FRESH
GAGS? FR INSTANTLY SAY "AUNTIN' COLLAR BUTTONS GIVES A MAN'S HAIR CREEPS."

JAKE'S JOKE
WOULD GIVE THE MAN RABIES.
